

Dr Oliver Khoo: Raising the Standard in Orthopaedic Hip Surgery

TL;DR

Dr Oliver Khoo is one of Sydney's top orthopaedic hip surgeons-not just for his technical skill, but for his rare combination of empathy, innovation, and commitment to regional outreach. This article explores why patients (and peers) consistently rate him the best in the field, and how his work is changing what Australians expect from surgical care.

A Specialist With Depth, Not Just Skill

With more than 14 years in orthopaedic surgery, Dr Khoo has become a trusted name in hip replacements, knee reconstruction, and complex shoulder repair. What makes his practice stand out is how he's blended cutting-edge surgical approaches with a remarkably human touch.

He's fellowship-trained, having refined his expertise not just in Australia but in surgical programs across Germany, South Korea, and Italy. That international experience shows-not in ego, but in execution. From minimally invasive hip arthroscopy to full anterior and posterior total hip replacements, his procedures are known for shorter hospital stays, fewer complications, and quicker rehab.

Every Patient, Every Story Matters

For Dr Khoo, patient care starts long before the scalpel-and continues well after the final stitch.

He's clear with his explanations. He listens, properly. He tailors treatment plans around real lives-whether that means recommending non-surgical options or adjusting recovery advice for a farmer in Griffith or a tourist visiting from overseas.

Here's what a few patients had to say:

"He has improved my quality of life so much... everyone around me feels like I'm a changed person." - Rahul Singh

"He explained everything well... Definitely recommend this lovely doctor!" - Amanda Harding

"I can't speak highly enough of my experience with Dr. Khoo-he's a brilliant surgeon and a bloody good bloke!" - Bob Whittington

Making Big-City Care Reach the Bush

Most top surgeons operate within the CBD or major metro hospitals. Dr Khoo does too-at Sydney's St Vincent's Clinic-but he also hits the road. Regularly.

He travels to Griffith, NSW, where patients often wait months (or more) to see a specialist. His outreach makes it possible for those in rural areas to receive the same high-calibre care without driving 8+ hours to Sydney.

He also participates in regional events-yes, including the local salami auction, which says a lot about how he values community, not just clinic time.

A Mentor and Educator, Not Just a Surgeon

Beyond the operating theatre, Dr Khoo plays a vital role in developing the next generation of orthopaedic talent. He's a Conjoint Associate Lecturer at UNSW, offering guidance to medical students and junior surgeons. He doesn't hoard knowledge-he shares it.

When someone with Khoo's values teaches, it's not just techniques that get passed on-it's ethics.

What Makes His Approach Different?

Dr Khoo combines old-school bedside manner with next-generation tools.

Some highlights:

- Computer-navigated surgery
- Minimally invasive techniques
- Telemedicine follow-ups

He's one of the few surgeons who doesn't just adopt the latest techniques-he brings them to underserved communities.

Real People. Real Results.

Orthopaedic surgery is about giving people their life back.

Gretchen Kramberger, an American tourist who fractured her elbow before a cruise, was operated on by Dr Khoo the next day. He saw her through every step of recovery.

"I was expertly cared for so far from home and will forever be grateful for this highly skilled surgeon and wonderful human being!"

Why It Matters for Australia's Healthcare Future

What Dr Khoo represents is a shift in how orthopaedic surgery can be delivered in Australia.

He blends:

- Technical mastery
- Community accessibility
- Mentorship
- Cultural humility

He's setting the bar for future surgeons-and changing expectations for patients.
